

Lance Leikis Young Planner Award

Recipient: Gurv Singh

For: A significant contribution by a Graduate member of the profession to planning in practice, research or Institute affairs.

Over the past seven years, Gurv Singh has been actively involved in the Auckland Branch of NZPI and Young Planners Committees in advocating for young planners within the Institute and the profession.

Gurv's continued professional interest in the Branch and Young Planners group has led him to successfully participate, organise and host a number of key professional development events for both the Branch and Young Planners' members.

Gurv had significant involvement in the development of the Young Planner's Strategic Plan and development of the Auckland Young Planners Mentoring Programme. His strong leadership skills and interest in the profession has helped him to become a young planner leader, as well as a NZPI representative within his work environment of the Auckland Council.

The Awards Panel considered Gurv Singh to be a deserving recipient of the Lance Leikis Young Planner Award having demonstrated the required attributes and made a significant contribution to the profession and Institute affairs.

The Lance Leikis Young Planner Award shall be made from time to time to a Graduate Member of the New Zealand Planning Institute. The award shall comprise a certificate and a financial contribution, and shall recognise: -

- A significant contribution by a Graduate Member of the profession to planning in practice, research, or Institute affairs.
