

Consents Team Leader

Have you heard? We're doing things differently at Waikato District Council. We're overhauling our operations, breaking down hierarchy, smashing silos and improving community planning. We're cultivating an innovative learning culture, and pushing co-design when it comes to our community. To make this change successful we need great people. Are you one of them?

Who are we looking for

The Waikato District is experiencing unprecedented growth, which brings fantastic opportunities to our communities and businesses. This growth brings diversity to the work we do and is exciting to be part of.

If you would like to lead one of our resource consent teams, and you're passionate about building relationships with staff, developers and their technical representatives, then we'd love to hear from you!

Our Consents department has five teams that include a mix of consent planners, land development engineers, and administrative support staff. This is a high performing group of people where working closely together and being committed to providing quality and timely customer service is a natural part of our culture.

You will need experience and knowledge of resource consent planning and the Resource Management Act, a tertiary level planning degree, a minimum seven years experience in senior consenting work, and experience leading a team would be highly desirable.

This role is a fantastic opportunity for the right person and along with the interesting and varied workload, we offer an attractive remuneration package, a genuine focus on personal leadership development and a great work-life balance.

Why join our team

Our head office is based in north Waikato's Ngaruawahia, just 10 minutes from Hamilton. You've got the benefits of an easy commute, free parking, work-life balance and the chance to hit the Hakarimatas on your lunch break. What more could you want?

Applications close: 11.55pm Sunday, 17 March 2019.
