

Calling all levels of planning and policy professionals:

We have a range of entry level through to senior positions currently available in our section, working on growth, transport and resource management policy and planning.

Do you share our vision for a sustainable future for the Waikato region, where the environment, economy and communities all thrive?

Our section has responsibility for working across our organisation and with key stakeholders to create and implement our statutory plans, and plan for growth and integration of land use and infrastructure. We also provide a range of general policy advice and advocacy on behalf of the Council on government policy and matters of regional interest.

We are looking for people with a keen interest in policy and planning under the Resource Management Act 1991 and Land Transport Management Act 2003, and who amongst other activities can work with key stakeholders to maintain and improve alignment with regional policy.

To be successful in one of these roles you will:

- have strong analytical skills
- be a clear communicator with great writing and presentation skills
- work collaboratively with others
- have a can-do attitude with a drive to see real results
- be a team player
- have a relevant tertiary qualification.

and for the more experienced roles:

- demonstrate the above to a high standard
- have experience in a relevant field
- have a working knowledge of local government and the relevant legislative environment.

The successful candidates will enjoy:

- The satisfaction of having a hand in region-shaping projects and initiatives.
- A supportive working environment with flexible working arrangements.
- Strong support for continuing professional development including achieving and maintaining professional accreditations where relevant to the role.
- Opportunities to work with industry-leading experts in their fields.
- An organisation which incorporates principles of the Treaty of Waitangi in its work environment and practices.

If you are a policy or planning professional looking for a change, please apply today!
