

Are you ready to be part of AECOM's future?

ASSOCIATE / TECHNICAL DIRECTOR - PLANNING

AUCKLAND

Impact the careers of others as you provide technical leadership while delivering on iconic projects across Auckland

At AECOM New Zealand we firmly believe in our people and appreciate that they are the reason we are able to deliver on our client promise and ensure outstanding project results. We value their impact and believe in supporting them through flexible work arrangements, a wide range of benefits and by providing interesting and challenging project opportunities that match their career ambitions.

THE ROLE

As a Technical Director / Associate Director in our business you will play a key role in providing expert advice, staff mentoring and developing and enhancing client relationships to win and deliver great work. We are looking to appoint an Associate Director / Technical Director Level professional to work with our Planning and Environment team.

This is an exciting opportunity to build client relationships and lead the delivery of a number of complex multi-disciplinary projects. Our team comprises a range of professionals including environmental scientists and engineers, resource management and urban planners, sustainability specialists and ecologists, who are all passionate about making a positive impact on our local communities and natural environment for the present and into the future.

The role will involve:

- Providing technical leadership to our Auckland planning team.
- Working at a national level with our other technical directors to shape and influence key market direction.
- Maintaining and developing regional and national key client relationships.
- Working with the planning and environment team to develop new business development initiatives
- Preparing, managing and supporting applications requiring statutory approval (i.e. resource consents, plan change requests, notices of requirement, etc)
- Representing clients and/or providing expert evidence at statutory hearings
- Providing mentoring and career development opportunities to team members

ABOUT YOU

- +20 years' experience working on New Zealand Planning projects
- A Resource Management or NZ Planning qualification
- Full NZPI membership
- Demonstrated depth of technical experience including infrastructure planning, statutory policy and landuse planning
- Confident in preparing and presenting evidence at Council, Environment Court, BOI hearings
- Previous experience in providing support and mentorship to team members

WHAT WE CAN OFFER YOU

The Workplace Gender Equality Agency (WGEA) recognises AECOM as taking a sophisticated, holistic approach to supporting women and men's equal participation throughout our workplace. We provide a diverse and inclusive work environment and offer many benefits to ensure your professional development and wellbeing:

- Fun and challenging work environment
- Flexible working arrangements
- Diverse and high-profile project work
- Working alongside global industry leaders
- Working on complex and interesting NZ based projects and exposure to offshore projects
