Engineering Officer, Field

Team Leader Planning

Want to be involved in shaping your City? Here at the Council we know our strength comes from our people, working together as one team to create results. When you join us, you're getting involved first hand, and contributing to crafting the Christchurch community.

In order for us to respond to the challenge created by the exciting commercial and residential activity happening right now and the activity projected for our city for years to come, our Resource Consents unit have an exciting opportunity for a Team Leader to join our team.

You'll lead a team of planners focused on the full range of functions associated with processing of resource consent applications and administering the District Plan. As a member of the Unit's leadership team, you'll be actively involved in staffing, forecasting, training and ensuring the unit is running effectively and efficiently.

A proven leader, you'll understand what it takes to develop a positive, performance driven culture. You'll use your relationship building and strong communication skills to foster cooperation within your team and across the Council, combining this with your technical and planning experience to provide expert advice.

Comfortable in your ability to identify and evaluate opportunities and deficiencies in the resource consents space, you'll prioritise identified improvements as part of a team that fosters a culture of continuous improvement and work to make these improvements a reality. You'll be flexible and willing to go that extra mile to meet the Unit's targets in this busy and fast-paced environment.

You'll hold a qualification in urban and regional planning, resource management or similar along with a strong working knowledge of the Resource Management Act and relevant local government legislation. You'll have a proven ability to effectively lead and coach staff to continually improve their own knowledge and skill.

We offer a supportive and fun work environment, and plenty of opportunities for professional development.

Get first-hand experience, and get involved in it all. Apply now.
