Risk Advisor, Corporate Services

Planning Technician - Subdivisions

Do you have a background in planning or surveying, or in a regulatory environment? Do you want to be involved in reshaping and revitalizing an entire city?

The Resource Consents unit is looking for Planning Technicians responsible for providing technical support for the processing of subdivision consents. You'll be assessing, evaluating and reporting on a wide variety of subdivision-related applications and processes, from the processing of straightforward subdivision consents through to the issue of Section 223 and Section 224(c) certificates.

As you'll work with a wide range of customers, both internal and external, to provide expert planning advice, you'll have exceptional communication skills and be able to adjust your language to suit the audience.

With experience in a busy customer service role within a regulatory, compliance or similar role, you'll have excellent time management skills and be able to manage a large number of processes and work to deadlines managing applications and replying to queries.

We're an inclusive organisation, with a strong focus on culture. We offer a supportive, collaborative and fun work environment with a well-structured framework for career progression and professional development.

So come and join us and be part of making a difference! Apply today and tell us why you're the perfect person for this pivotal role.
