
SENIOR PLANNER

The Property Group Limited (TPG) is growing – we have new and established clients onboard and a diverse range of exciting projects underway, with more in the pipeline. We are on the hunt for a Senior Planner to join the team and be part of our continued growth.

About us – what we do

TPG is New Zealand's largest specialist property consultancy. We've got over 20 years' experience providing a range of property services to corporate, government and private landowners. With a nationwide presence and an experienced team, we've got the advantage of nationwide networks combined with local knowledge. We work across multiple sectors including transportation, telecommunications, energy, territorial local authorities (TLAs), housing, and corporate real estate. Every day we get to work with clients who are involved in large and exciting projects of national significance.

About the role - what you will be doing

We are looking for a motivated and highly capable senior planner to join our growing planning team in the Auckland region, which extends to Northland. We are open to this role being based in either our Auckland or Whangarei office.

The role involves working on a variety of planning and property projects across New Zealand. TPG provides a full package of planning and property advice to our clients, so you'll also get to work collaboratively alongside our property, development and Geographical Information Systems (GIS) team. The range of work you can typically expect to be involved with includes securing resource consents for development projects, preparing notices of requirement for infrastructure projects, preparing district plan changes or providing advanced urban policy and strategy advice for central and local government.

About you - what you will bring

We're looking for someone who understands the local planning framework in Auckland and/or Northland. You'll be working alongside an experienced and highly capable team, but you'll have the experience that allows you to hit the ground running and work autonomously. We are open to your background – ideally, you'll have experience working in a private consultancy but that's not a deal breaker. If you have the following skills and experience, or the potential to develop in these, then we would love to hear from you:

- Five years or more RMA planning experience, ideally in local government or a private consultancy
- A passion for providing astute and practical planning advice
- Ability to combine your technical planning background with an eye for business development opportunities
- Strong relationship management experience and a track record of forging strong relationships with clients.

What's in it for you?

Here at TPG we pride ourselves on providing a positive culture and work environment for our people. Our values (positivity, integrity, care and collaboration) form the foundation of our culture and influence our approach to our clients and to each other. We offer a competitive remuneration package, health insurance, career progression and learning and development opportunities. We have a fun and social work culture and every year we get the whole company together to celebrate at our Annual Forum. We're a modern organisation, open to considering a flexible arrangement for this role so let us know how that might work for you.
