

Team Leader - Science and Environment

- Experienced leader
- Seeking a change of scene?
- Work and play in sunny Nelson

As the result of an internal promotion we have a great opportunity for an experienced people leader to join our Science and Environment team. Reporting to a supportive and knowledgeable Manager, you will lead a skilled and committed team of 6 environmental science professionals to deliver an exciting programme of work. Technically, you will preferably have a freshwater background, plus familiarity with coastal/marine and/or air quality.

With responsibility for environmental monitoring, analysis and reporting, plus the delivery of non-regulatory environmental programmes, the role offers variety and an opportunity to make Nelson an even better place.

In addition to your team members, you will interact with senior leaders and elected members, as well as our community, so you will be a skilled communicator and influencer across a range of forums.

If you're ready for your next career move, please check out the competencies below and tell us in your cover letter how we're a great match for each other:

- your experience of leading a team of professionals
- demonstrated success in planning, implementing and achieving environmental goals in your area of expertise
- strong communication skills (report writing, ability to build and maintain positive working relationships, presentation skills, community engagement)
- programme management focus, including design, delivery and evaluation
- knowledge of local government environmental monitoring requirements
- relevant tertiary qualifications
- technology savvy.

"Working together to make Nelson an even better place."

Nelson City Council is an organisation filled with supportive people who love this beautiful city of ours. It's an exciting time to live, work and play in Nelson, as the city continues to grow and thrive. We have amazing weather and a gorgeous natural environment to play in, and our city always has something going on. Whether it be major events or just a general buzz in town, it's a great place for all ages.
