

Looking for exceptional people to join our Auckland team

Are you an experienced resource management consultant looking to make your mark? Do you have the talent to drive the continuous development of a business that offers something different?

We are looking for high-calibre consultants - the best of the best and are seeking expressions of interest from talented Resource Management practitioners to join our established team.

Mitchell Daysh is a specialist environmental and planning consultancy with a presence in Auckland, Hamilton, Napier and Dunedin. We advise on some of the country's most complex planning and resource management issues and are involved with a broad range of high-profile clients. Our culture and the quality of our team sets us apart. If successful, you will work with some of New Zealand's most respected, knowledgeable and innovative professionals.

This is a fast paced, high productivity, deadline-based business - so we are looking for people who thrive in this kind of environment and are up for the challenge. We offer a supportive and collaborative working environment.

To express an interest in this opportunity, send your resume and covering letter to Rebekah Jenkins on rebekah.jenkins@mitchelldaysh.co.nz or call for a confidential discussion on 021 470 098.
